About the Board

The NSW Architects Registration Board administers the Architects Act 2003, the legislation regulating architects in NSW. The Board's key role is to protect consumers of architectural services by ensuring that architects provide services to the public in a professional and competent manner, disciplining architects who have acted unprofessionally or incompetently, accrediting architectural qualifications for the purpose of registration, informing the public about the qualifications and competence of individuals or organisations holding themselves out as architects, and promoting a better understanding of architectural issues in the community.

The Board

- maintains an accurate Register of Architects and a List of Architect Corporations and Firms
- operates a fair, effective, and open procedure for investigating and hearing complaints
- sanctions architects who breach the Architects Act and individuals or firms who represent themselves as an architect when they are not entitled to do so
- conducts examinations
- administers scholarships and awards
- promotes a better understanding of architectural issues in the broader community.

The Board is responsible to the Minister for Innovation and Better Regulation, Victor Dominello MP.

The work of the Board is totally funded by fees paid by architects and architect firms and corporations.

Board Members

The Board includes six architects and five members who are not architects. Richard Thorp was appointed by the Minister for Finance and Services as his architect nominee, and is President of the NSW Architects Registration Board. Together with Richard Thorp, the architects on the Board include: Peter Sarlos, elected architect member
Nigel Bell, elected architect member
Joe Agius, immediate past president of the Australian Institute of Architects NSW Chapter
Catherine Lassen, University of Sydney academic representative
Peter Poulet, ex-officio, NSW Government Architect, and elected Deputy President
